REFUGEE HEALTH ASSESSMENT PROGRAM

Many refugees and entrants that arrive in Florida come from areas of the world where preventive health care is not a priority. Many of their health conditions can be promptly addressed with early diagnosis and treatment. Some may have a communicable disease or condition, such as tuberculosis, that could represent a threat to public health. The mission of the Refugee Health Assessment Program is to protect the health of the general population of Florida and to improve the health status of refugees so they may achieve self-sufficiency. The domestic health assessment is a new arrival's first encounter with the health care system in the United States.

The Refugee Health Assessment Program staff plays an important role in establishing the new arrival's confidence in the health care system and his/her likelihood to seek care in the future. The initial domestic health screening must be completed within 90 days of arrival and the follow-up immunizations must be completed within eight months. Services include: school physicals, tuberculosis skin test, chest x-ray, vision and hearing tests, dental check, blood pressure check, malnutrition test, test for parasitic infection, Hepatitis B screening, immunizations for children and adults, asthma screening, test for diabetes, anemia test, test for sexually transmitted diseases, pregnancy test if applicable, mental health evaluation and referral, lead screening, translation services, HIV counseling and testing, and cholesterol screening. Referrals for continuity of care are provided as needed.

Eligible populations: refugees, asylees, Cuban/Haitian asylum applicants, Cuban/Haitian entrants, Americans, and certain victims of severe forms of human trafficking. There is a partnership with many agencies like Department of Justice, Immigration, Department of International Affairs, U.S. Quarantine Station at Miami International Airport, Voluntary Agencies, Florida Department of Children and Families Refugee Services; Jackson Health System, Epilepsy Foundation, Alliance for Human Services, and State Refugee Task Force.

Miami-Dade County Health Department*SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM

School Health Services is a public service provided to students in Pre-Kindergarten through grade 12 (over 342 schools) by the Miami-Dade County Health Department, School Health Program and Miami-Dade County Public Schools (M-DCPS). With a customer base of over 379,000 M-DCPS students and growing, the School Health Program is continually looking for new ways to adequately meet their diverse needs. Programmatic and regulatory oversight is provided through the Florida Department of Health. Funds from the Department of Health, local school districts, and private community service providers pay for school health staff, which is composed mostly of registered nurses, advanced registered nurse practitioners, licensed practical nurses, health aides, social workers, clerical, and paraprofessionals.

Comprehensive School Health Services are provided: a total of 25,794 clinic visits were made last school year; social interventions conducted totaled 1,040; students engaged in health education classes totaled 33,448; full school services in-kind hours estimated values totaled $679,769; and basic health services and abstinence health education services are also provided. A volunteer nursing project promotes school health nurse volunteers and 12 nurses provide volunteer services in the schools. County partners provide services in designated feeder patterns. M-DCPS conducts vision, hearing, and scoliosis screening in the schools. Multiple agency sources assist with funding to sustain the program.
